Cyprus attracts a lot of foreigners, who would like to permanently settle in the Island, as soon as they retire. Each individual chooses the Island for permanent residency for his/her own personal reasons. Some might choose it for its natural beauty and harmony or for its Mediterranean climate; others for its quality of life in conjunction with the low cost of living; others for the relaxed lifestyle at the countryside or for its rich culture and heritage.

Cyprus is considered an unrivalled beauty at the center of the Mediterranean, due to its nature's charm with its wonderful trails and the genuine flora and fauna, its countless alluring golden sandy beaches and the freshness, bracing pine-scented atmosphere of the mountains. In order to further attract foreign pensioners in choosing Cyprus as their permanent residence, modern golf courses have been built in different districts of Pafos (Cyprus Golf Federation).

Usually, winter in Cyprus does not last more than two months (from mid-December to beginning of February). During this period, the highest slopes of Troodos Mountains are covered in snow, thus offering an opposing view of the common Mediterranean climate of the Island. Cyprus is the perfect destination for elderly people (and not only), where they can enjoy the harmony and quietness of the Island, far away from the chilliness of the North.

Foreigners from around the world prefer Cyprus mainly for its all year round Mediterranean sunshine. This makes it an enviable destination and an irresistible temptation. The sun of Cyprus gives a special shine and flavour to the daily activities of its citizens. The beach admirers enjoy swimming in the crystal clear waters of the Mediterranean even until end of November.

The privileged climate of Cyprus, make it an ideal destination for endless holidays all year round.

Whether you choose to live at the seaside or at the mountain resorts, in the city or in the hinterland, you are never apart from the cosmopolitan lifestyle and cultural events of Cyprus. The choice is yours!
